"So, you know how sometimes things just don't click within a team? Yeah, that's where we were. My team, my department, we were all just... stuck. Communication was a mess, and it was seriously hitting us in the wallet.

Then, we got this tip about Daniel, and man, did he shake things up. He really pushed us out of our comfort zones. But you know what? It was exactly what we needed.

Now? Well, let's just say we're a whole lot smoother as a team. We find we can throw around ideas without stepping on each other's toes. We are definitely lucky to have him onboard".
